What an unforgettable day!

8th March, 2019 (Friday)

Foggy

I went to The Peak with my favourite English teacher, Miss Wong, my classmates and my best friend, Yanet. We all felt excited. First of all, we travelled there by coach and The Peak Tram. I thought we needed to buy tickets but our teachers had already bought them for us.

I took out my I-pad and took a lot of pictures. When I was on the Peak tram, I took photos of the beautiful view of Hong Kong. Then, I heard someone say, "Look! It is fantastic!" My classmates were all taking photos. However, it was too foggy to take a good photo. At the same, the tram was very crowded and I felt a bit uncomfortable.

When we got off the tram, the teachers brought us to eat something delicious. There were so many restaurants. The teachers helped us decide what to eat when we were confused. Therefore, we went to Burger King and had burgers. The burgers were expensive but small. I ordered the Fish Burger but the cashier did not give me the correct change. It was less than what it should be. Luckily, I figured that out. After the meal, we walked around. Everyone went shopping while someone was doing the survey.

After shopping, we went out of the tower and did the survey. However, there were just a few tourists. The weather was foggy, rainy and windy so Yanet and I went back to the shopping mall and did the survey. We interviewed five people and asked where they are from. They answered with a place that we have never heard of. Then, we asked for their names. They answered with some names that are not very common. We took a photo with them after we finished our survey. After that, I realized that doing a survey can be difficult.

A few minutes later, we gathered at the entrance of the mall. We asked our classmates, "Have you completed the survey yet?" Someone did, but someone didn't. One of the classmates did the survey but he forgot to take the photo with the tourists. He just took the photo with his partner.

Next, the teachers brought us to the 3D workshop. We also took a lot of photos there. After visiting the 3D workshop, we returned to school by coach. I sat with my classmate and we talked a lot about our trip to The Peak on the way home. We were chatting happily on the coach. When we arrived back to school, I felt sad because I had to say goodbye to my friends.

Although the day has finished, the memories still stay in my mind. I took a lot of beautiful pictures and spent a wonderful day with my best friend, Yanet and my classmates.
